

THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY

The observation of Washington's birthday recalls to us year by year the patience and faith and courage with which he lived the dark years of the revolutionary war. The darkest and most matter-of-fact history of this period throws a clear light upon these characteristics of Washington. No man ever more truly carried the fate of a nation upon his shoulders. He strove against disappointment, disaster, lack of funds and material, inefficient or disaffected aids, English propaganda at least as strong as the German propaganda of the last few years, and through it all he looked forward with high faith and courage to the ultimate destiny of the United States.

After the war a task of the utmost difficulty confronted him in the rehabilitation of a country worn by war, lacking financial credit at home and abroad and disturbed by factional dissensions. Here also his wisdom and patience brought their results. It is directly to him that we owe our lives of comfort and liberty.

We are again in a time of reconstruction after war. Our problems are different from those which confronted Washington and his time, but no less disturbing. It is for us to attempt to meet these problems with his spirit of foresight and patience and wisdom. So shall we behold, as he did, a greater and more beneficent America.

FOR OUR FIGHTING MEN.

(From the President's Address to Congress, Dec. 2, 1918.)

"I particularly direct your attention to the very practical plans which the Secretary of the Interior has developed in his annual report and before your committees for the reclamation of arid, swamp and over-lands. . . . The Congress can at once direct thousands of the returning soldiers to the reclamation of the arid lands which it has already undertaken if it will but enlarge the plans and appropriations which it has entrusted to the Department of the Interior. It is possible in dealing with our unused land to effect a great rural and agricultural development which will afford the best sort of opportunity to men who want to help themselves; and the Secretary of the Interior has thought the possible methods out in a way which is worthy of your most friendly attention."

(From Colonel Roosevelt's last article published in the February Metropolitan, entitled "Eyes to the Front.")

"We should spend hundreds of millions of dollars reclaiming land for the returning soldier and arranging labor bureaus so that he may be certain to have every chance to work. The man who has gone into the army should be given in peculiar fashion the best chance that this country affords to become a farmer, or to work at his trade or profession. If possible he should be encouraged to become a farmer, in accordance with some such plan as that proposed by Secretary Lane."

IN EXPLANATION.

So many inquiries have come to the management concerning the proposition recently submitted to The Times-Herald to purchase the plant of a competitor, that it is felt some explanation is due. Because of the crowded field, and not through the pressing need of any additional equipment, the proposition was seriously considered when first presented, for we realize the imposition upon the business men of Burns in being asked to support so many papers. Later developments in the deal caused such an advance in terms that further consideration was impossible, as we did not feel called upon to make too great a sacrifice to alleviate the situation.

The Times-Herald has been issued regularly in this field for over thirty-one years, and during the period of the present management has had twenty-nine competitors. Two or three of these were bought out, but except in case of real competition, further purchases at present are not contemplated unless justified in the overwhelming opinion of our friends and supporters.

Mrs. Tobolt Astonished At Results of Tanlac—Gains 20 Pounds.

"Some wonderful things happen in this world, and the way Tanlac has restored my health and built me up is one of them," said Mrs. Paul Tabolet of 916 California Ave., Butte, Mont. In one of the most interesting and remarkable statements yet published in connection with the Master Medicine.

"My trouble started about two years ago," she continued, "and I have simply been a nervous wreck ever since until now. Last January I went to a hospital where I was told that my whole system had become poisoned by an affected appendix, that an operation was my only hope and it was doubtful if this would save me. So I arranged to have my children cared for, in case I should not see them again, and submitted to the operation. Well, the operation was done with so much skill, and I was so carefully nursed that I finally got out of the hospital, and was home with my husband and children again. Then I picked up wonderfully for a little more than a month when I began to having terrible pains in my back over my kidneys. My appetite left me, and nothing tasted right. I was constipated, had fearful headaches, and was so nervous that I could hardly sleep. I fell off until I weighed less than a hundred pounds and was so weak that it was an effort for me to get about at all.

"Finally my husband suggested that I try Tanlac, as it was being so much talked about, and the results have astonished us both. I couldn't see much improvements on my first bottle, but with the second my appetite got better. I commenced to feel improved and was surprised when I got on the scales, to find that I had gone up to one hundred and eight pounds. Well, the third bottle did wonders for me, relieving me of all pain and headache and making me want to eat up everything. I now weigh one hundred and eighteen pounds making a gain of more than twenty pounds on three bottles and I'm wondering what my fourth bottle which I have just started taking, will do for me. I sleep like a healthy child never waking at night at all and feel like I eat five or six meals a day. I dismissed my hired help, four weeks ago, after eighteen months steady service, and since then I have done all of my own housework cooking and everything. I have no more dull, drowsy bad feelings and life is a pleasure to me. I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Burns by Reed Bros., and in Crane by Vale Trading Co. —Adv.
